DORIS KEANE WEDS
ENGLISH ACTOR

DORIS KEANE
Doris Keane, American stage favorite, has just become the bride of Basil Sydney, an English actor. The marriage took place in London.

An unusual sight to see a driver having to back down an ascent, only partly covered, and drive by some other route to his destination. A curious circumstance was noted on Georgia avenue Saturday afternoon, which if not original, was most ingeniously managed. A large coal wagon, heavily laden, back of which was a big truck, also filled with coal, was seen coming up Georgia avenue toward the courthouse from Ninth street. The load was being drawn, apparently without effort, by two mules. As the ground was slippery, people stopped to watch the animal, evidently wondering how the heavy load so easily. It transpired, however, that the mules did nothing but walk. The big truck behind was pushing them and the coal wagon, and the mules seemed to be well satisfied with the idea, except when the heavy motor truck moved on double-quick, from time to time. Other teamsters on several of the hills have been seen to unhitch and take their horses to the rescue of some weaker animal, trying unsuccessfully to make the ascent. On a street, a mule was seen to deliberately lie down in his shafts, one day last week, and was indispensible to move, even when dislodged with a crowbar. He was not hurt, and is not thought to have stumbled.

COAL DELIVERED AS NECESSITY SUNDAY

Coal was delivered by some of the dealers in the residential sections on Sunday. Some of the residents of Oak street found their furnace supply alarmingly low Saturday and the dealers declared they could not deliver. Individual efforts to secure men with wagons to deliver coal proved futile and in order to save suffering from the severe cold that gripped the city Sunday, the dealers finally came to the relief of those whose coal bins were all but empty.

ENLISTMENTS FOR NAVY RESTRICTED

Orders Allow Only Fifteen Per Week for Tennessee, Two for Chattanooga.

Chief Boatswain A. Biel, in charge of the navy recruiting office in Chattanooga, received orders Monday cutting down the enlistments of his office to two a week. This order allows only fifteen enlistments to the state, distributed as follows:

Chattanooga 2
Nashville 5
Memphis 3
Knoxville 3
Traveling recruiting party 2

The preference in selecting these men is to be given machinists, electricians, wireless operators, blacksmiths, carpenters, coppersmiths. This order is to remain operative till further notice.

For the two weeks preceding Dec. 15, when the draft law became operative as a stay against enlistments, Chief Biel enlisted eighty men. This was the best record of the local office.

ANOTHER CHILD
BADLY BURNED

Third Tragedy in Three Days.
Clarence Stephens' Clothing Catches From Open Grate.

Clarence Stephens, Jr., aged 5 years, is at his home, 706 Olive street, Avondale, suffering from burns received Sunday morning when his clothing caught fire from an open grate. The lad's father, Clarence Stephens, Sr., a local barber, was also burned in his efforts to extinguish the flaming clothing on his son's body.

The condition of the boy is regarded as very serious, but he was resting easy Monday morning.

Practically all the hair was burned from his head, and his face and the upper part of his body were affected by the flames. His eyes were closed this morning, but it is thought that he will not lose his sight.

Mr. Stephens' hands were practically cooked to the bone in places before the burning clothing on his child's body was extinguished.

Clarence, Jr., with other children, was playing in an upstairs room of the house. He reached for something on the mantel and his clothing became ignited from the fire in the grate. The screams of the kiddies attracted the attention of Mr. Stephens and he rushed into the room to find his son practically enveloped in flames.

Immediately after the blazing clothing had been extinguished, medical aid was summoned for father and son.

CAPT. LYERLY SELECTED

ROY D. THURMAN IS BADLY BURNED

Roy D. Thurman, 16, employed by the weather bureau, and living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thurman, on Fourth street near the Citizens' cemetery, was seriously burned early Saturday morning. The young man made a fire in the grate of his room, after which, dressed only in his night clothes, he stood with his back to the fire. The flames reached out and set fire to his night shirt and he was badly burned before the flames could be extinguished. The boy's father was badly burned in trying to put the fire out.

HILARITY HOLDS SWAY AT RIALTO THIS WEEK

Harry A. Meyers' Novelty Minstrels hold the headline honors the first half of the week at the Rialto. Astronomers may try to show that there are no points to a circle and the only star that has any association with a circle is Turkish. This, however, is not the case. There is five pointed circle, and each point of which is an individual star in Harry A. Meyers' Novelty Minstrels. Five men, each one knowing the ins and outs, the in-between, the above and below and all sides of minstrelsy, have combined and are offering a little minstrel novelty that is a joyous medley of nonsense, song and footwork.

Billie Burke's "Motor Boating," billed as "A Nautical Laugh," is the headline act the last half of the week. Billie Burke, who has been dealing in novelties, has, through their sale, amassed sufficient funds to purchase a motorboat, and manned with a capable crew of entertainers, he has launched the craft on a sea of gurgling glee. "Motor Boating" is a Billie Burke is quite different from that of any other pleasure craft, and every incident that might possibly have a comedy vein has been utilized by Skipper Burke in this, his most recent production. Shutins, open scuppernonts, bent propeller blades, fog engine trouble, side lights, penants, hatchets, pignals, binacle lights, magnetic declinations, funnels, kells, mizzens, masts, giles, rigging and a thousand and one things familiar to the nautical mind, have been put to laughing purposes in this clever comedy.

First on the bill the first half of the week is Alfred Farrel & Co., in their novelty "Rag Picture" offering. Their act is followed by that of George W. Cunningham and Herman Marion in "An Aerobatic Talkfest."

Third on the bill is Harry Z. Meyers with his Novelty Minstrels, while fourth on the program is a humorous skit, entitled, "Outside the Inn."

Jess Willard is coming. Not the Jess Willard who holds the heavyweight championship, but a thoroughly pleasing young woman, who, with Harry Leonard, compose the team of Leonard and Willard, and are seen in the skit called "Outside the Inn." This is a humorous play on words and funny mix-up of inn and out, played to a musical accompaniment. It is a bright skit, pleasingly played by a pert quartet. The bill closes with Johnny Clark & Co., offering a comedy novelty with special scenery.

First on the program the last half of the week is the Marvel, eccentric, flexible gymnast, whose act is followed by that of Helen Vincent, in song stories. Third on the bill is Columbia and Victor. Their act is followed by that of Joseph L. Browning, D. H. This is a new degree awarded by the college of comedy, and means "Doctor of Hilarity." He is a graduate of this college and knows comedy from a wane smile to uproarious laughter. Browning dispenses his laughter in "A Timely Sermon" which contains so many different kinds of chuckles, that it is impossible to enumerate them. As a preacher of this sort of sermon, Mr. Browning has it all over other humorists. The bill closes with Billie Burke's "Motor Boating," billed as "A Nautical Laugh."

CURIOUS FREAK OF OLD TENNESSEE

Rises Six Feet Within Two Hours, Drops Back and Comes Again.

The weatherman, L. P. Pindell, reports a curious freak played by the Tennessee river Sunday. There has been, during all this cold spell, a low stage of water, the gauge's reading 9 feet. Sunday, suddenly, along about the middle of the forenoon the stream began to rise and registered 15 feet in two hours. It then as suddenly dropped several feet for the next few hours and then rose again. At 11 o'clock the gauge registered 14 feet and 11 inches, but since then the gauge has prevented a correct reading of the gauge.

Mr. Pindell accounts for this freak by a heavy gorge of ice down the river somewhere which checked the flow, causing it to back up at Chattanooga, the breaking of the gorge released the water and it flowed naturally for a while when checked by a second gorge.

The first ice of consequence reached the lock and dam at 11 o'clock today, and from now on the heavy gorge is expected at that point, but there is no danger of any resultant damage. The flow of ice is heavier than for years past and has caused much anxiety among shipping and houseboat dwellers.

Several occupants of houseboats moved out Sunday when the ice began to assume alarming proportions.

The backbone of the cold spell of weather is broken and the forecast is for warmer weather with either
